I am a former coworker of Brandon's. Brandon is one of the hardest working, innovative, and passionate people I have ever met. In our past roles, Brandon was constantly making improvements to the business. He always pushed the team to do better and make better experiences for our customers. Brandon is an asset to any organization he works for.

I have had the pleasure of knowing Brandon in a personal and professional context for a number of years and have had the opportunity to witness their exceptional skills and dedication to their craft. Brandon is a truly dedicated individual, and will certainly be an excellent candidate for your open position. Brandon's attention to detail, sharp focus, and determination are only a few of his outstanding qualities.
